Qatar approves draft e-invoicing law

On 6 May, the Cabinet greenlit Qatar's first legal framework for electronic invoices and credit/debit notes.

WHAT HAPPENED

On 6 May 2026, Qatar's Cabinet approved the draft law and its executive executive regulations, prepared by the Ministry of Finance with the General Tax Tax Authority. It is the country's first formal formal step toward an e-invoicing regime.

WHAT IT MEANS

A clearance-style model is likely, with invoices validated by the tax authority near near the moment of issuance. A phased phased rollout is expected. Scope across across B2B, B2C and B2G is still to be confirmed.

WHAT TO DO

If you trade with or supply Qatar, start scoping your data sources and ERP master data now. Identify the in-scope flows. Treat this as a wake-up call, not a deadline. Early movers will pay less to be ready.

→ Trade with Qatar? Send us your top 3 invoice flows. We will map the likely impact.

Four more moves you should know about

Different countries, same direction of travel. Short, sharp, actionable.

UAE

1 July: pick your accredited service provider

28 ASPs approved by the FTA. The voluntary 4-corner model is open; the mandate starts 1 Jan 2027 (>AED 50M turnover first).

→ Shortlist 2–3 ASPs this month, don't wait for wait for June.

SPAIN

Verifactu draft regulation: consultation closed 8 May

Phased B2B mandate confirmed: large companies (>€8M) from 1 Oct 2027, all others from 1 Oct 2028. Recipients must report payment status within 4 working days.

→ Map your AR/AP payment-status process process now.

GREECE

myDATA e-delivery Phase 2 postponed to October

AADE pushed Phase 2 (full digital tracking + QR for shipments) from 1 May 2026 to 1 Oct 2026. Full obligations land in 2027.

→ Use the runway to clean up logistics master master data.

DOM REP

e-CF deadline extended to November 2026

DGII Notice 06-26 (6 May) gives small, micro and unclassified taxpayers extra time to onboard.

In the trenches: ERP set-ups and France deep dives

ERP SET-UP SUPPORT

SAP S/4HANA & Microsoft Dynamics 365

We helped several clients with best-practice set-up questions for indirect tax outputs across multiple countries.

- Tax codes & determination logic that survive audits
- Country-specific output formats and reporting boxes
- Master data discipline so the ERP feeds e-invoicing cleanly

→ Stuck on a set-up? One call, one whiteboard, we'll unblock it.

FRANCE DEEP DIVES

Three real-world scenarios, fully analysed

Loi Sapin (advertising)

Advertiser → agency → media. Disclosed vs undisclosed agents: who invoices whom, what shows up in e-invoicing

B7: e-reporting vs e-invoicing

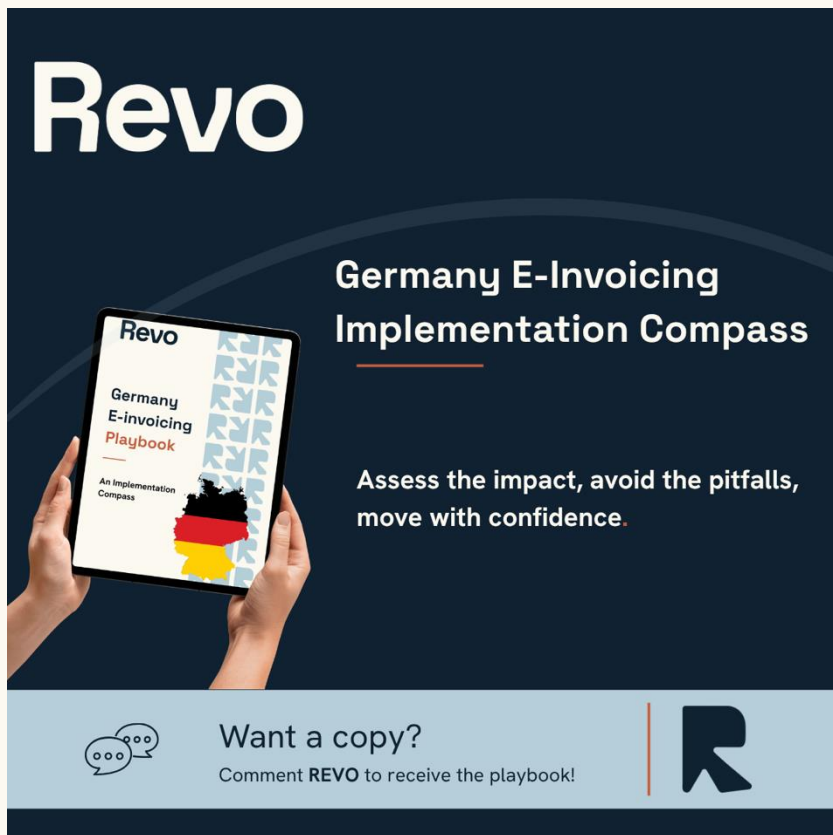

The classic confusion: a flow that looks like a sale but reports like a transaction. We mapped it cleanly.

DOM-TOM goods flows

French seller to a taxable customer in Guadeloupe, Martinique or La Réunion, shipped from mainland and imported by the customer. VAT-treated as export but e-invoicing and e-reporting? We mapped it.

→ Have a France flow that doesn't fit the textbook? Send it over.

FOUNDER NOTE

Building Revo, honestly

It's intense. The highs are high. The lows are low. And honestly? We wouldn't trade it.

THE REAL BIT

Setting up a company means doing all of it at once. Strategy, ops, business development, content, the next pitch, the next invoice, the next bug.

Plenty of messages we send go unanswered. Plenty of doors stay closed. That part is real, we won't pretend otherwise.

But we get to choose. The shape, the tone, the values, the people we work with. That freedom is the bit you can't buy and the bit we are putting our identity into. Authentic, by design.

THE WONDERFUL BIT

Then there are the conversations: sharp, generous, often a single coffee that turns into a referral, an intro, an idea we hadn't seen.

And the community: peers helping peers, no scoreboard, no agenda. Refreshing isn't a strong enough word. It's the part that keeps the lows short and the work fun.

To everyone we met this week - thank you. To everyone we haven't crossed paths with yet - let's fix that.

Same direction. Different speeds.

Five regulatory moves, two ERPs, one Germany guide, three France flows, a wrapped podcast series, and several webinars in the diary. Different countries, one direction of travel, toward a living, operational compliance layer.

Pick the one item that matters most for your team this week. Forward it to a colleague, or send it back to us with a question. That's how this gets useful.
